

Indiana has adopted a wonderful no-call list plan and I don't see where federal intervention in this plan will make it better. On the contrary, it will make it less effective. Prior to the Indiana no-call list, we had lightening damage to our answering system. We chose to not replace the system due to the amount of unsolicited calls we were getting and the amount of them that were leaving messages. We did not replace the answering system for two years . . . when Indiana insituted their no-call list. Please allow those stated who have already adopted a plan to continue theirs.

Thank you,
